

DATA 50

Welcome

Hello and welcome to the 50th issue of Data.

Over the last few months we have been very busy working on a number of high profile and flagship projects for various clients.

Our latest project with iSmash saw the opening last week of their latest new store at London Bridge station, whilst in Eastbourne we have just handed over a major new 350sq m store in the Beacon Centre for local jeweller W. Bruford, stockists of leading brands such as Rolex, Breitling and TAG Heuer. More details of these projects will follow.

Amongst our current projects is a new concession for Olivia Von Halle in Harrods and a new store for Charbonnel et Walker in Broadgate, where we are delighted to be working once again with the team at CADA Design Group.

In September we attended the high profile opening of Clogau’s flagship store in Cardiff, following a major seven-week refurbishment, which we hope to feature in our next newsletter; simultaneously we were also completing new Clogau stores at Bridgend Designer Outlet Village and Carmarthen, all of which opened on time ahead of the Christmas trading period.

In this issue of Data we feature an extensive refurbishment of a private residence in Chelsea and the redevelopment of The Glasshouse Restaurant at The Grove in Hertfordshire, pictured above, which we hope you will enjoy reading about.

Finally, if you have any questions or would like more information about the services we offer don’t hesitate to get in touch.

The Glasshouse, The Grove, Hertfordshire

Award-winning Martin Hulbert Design, who styled the original interiors for The Grove, has created a luminous new look for The Glasshouse.

For starters, it now lives up to its name... extended to feature a vast triple-height glass conservatory framing beautiful garden views, it brings the outside in — true to The Grove's unique style.

Working closely with Martin Hubert Design and main contractor, Komfort Services, Datum was appointed as part of the team to refurbish The Glasshouse and was responsible for all bespoke joinery and metalwork in the bar and restaurant areas, which included brass and chemically-blackened steel on the bar counters, shelving, mirror frames, columns and as well as a new staircase.

Datum also manufactured and installed several new waiter stations, finished in Calacatta Oro marble and Richlite. Several columns were clad in blackened steel and mirror, which were also used to clad two large goal post-like structures between the bar and restaurant. The main bar was designed using mirrors, brass, timber and blackened steel, creating a dramatic focal point.

The client and design team were delighted with the result. Commenting on the project, David Round, a director at Datum, said: "The Glasshouse is the latest of several projects we have carried out at The Grove and we were delighted to showcase our work at such a magnificent hotel. Whilst always a challenge, it is a pleasure to work on projects where the client and design team is focused on fine detail and quality, and we have again met all their expectations."

Private Residence, Chelsea

With Datum’s significant experience delivering high quality residential interiors, they were appointed to refurbish a four-storey townhouse in Chelsea.

The project, in an exclusive residential area with restricted access, was technically challenging. The plans included opening up the basement, which involved extensive structural work, the installation of a new staircase, new services, bathrooms and all internal finishes.

Given the extent of the major refurbishment and site constraints Datum’s project team meticulously planned the works over a 25-week period achieving a stunning result that delighted their client.
