

Welcome to Data 54

Hello

I hope this latest issue of our newsletter finds you well and that you, along with your colleagues and families, have managed to stay safe and well.

As the lockdown restrictions continue to ease, life and the economy appear to be returning to some form of normality. Let us hope this continues and that we can all enjoy a good summer.

One of our recently completed projects has been for Welsh gold retailer, Clogau, at the new McArthur Glen Designer Outlet at Cannock, officially the UK's newest shopping centre, which opened in April — pictured above and below.

Prior to Cannock, we had also recently opened four new stores for Clogau at Cwmbran, Ruthin and Wrexham, together with a new flagship store in Chester city centre, which was within a grade 2 listed building.

Transport for London has moved into new offices, courtesy of our fit-out team who worked closely with Michael O'Sullivan Design & Architecture. We have also just completed our first project for Bentley Motors at their head office and factory in Crewe and we are about to start work on a new project for this iconic brand.

If you have any questions about the services we offer I would be delighted to hear from you.

Wakefields, Horsham

In Horsham, family jeweller Wakefields has taken advantage of the lockdown since Christmas to carry out a major refurbishment of their store.

We have been working closely with London design group Innovare Design and owners Dominic and Melissa Wakefield on the interiors of the new store, which is nearing completion. The owners are planning for a much-anticipated re-opening in mid-May.

Established in 1911 as a family business, Wakefields, is a leading stockist for Rolex and other luxury brands.

The contemporary new look for Wakefields will include an expanded Rolex showroom, a luxurious new bar and areas specifically designed for carrying out bespoke jewellery design to offer an exclusive retail experience. The quality of finishes and attention to detail is evident throughout the new design.

We look forward to sharing the final result of this exciting and impressive project with you very shortly. Meanwhile, courtesy of Innovare Design, we have included a few teaser images to show what we have been working on.
